

GISP

Global Invasive Species Programme

Animals may be bringing invasive species into countries.

The trade of animals between countries provides an obvious pathway for invasive disease or animal species to enter a country.

Screening and prevention efforts are robust for livestock and animal husbandry but significant gaps in guidance exist for the trade in live wild animals, including those species imported for pets, aquariums, aquaculture, live bait and live food.